Firefly Legal announced several promotions and staff additions.

The firm's director of operations, Matt Massa, was promoted to VP. Massa started with the company in 1997 as a court filer and process server and was promoted in 2004 to director of national operations. In his new position, he will work closely with company president Keith McMaster to help provide overall direction and guidance to the operational activities and oversee the directors of the company.

"Matt has been an asset to our company since the start, and I'm confident in his experience and abilities to make Firefly even better," McMaster said.

Firefly also announced the promotion of Jennifer Dlugolecki to oversee the client services department in addition to her client relations and business development responsibilities. In addition, Joe Belenske was promoted to financial systems and operations analyst.

A few new faces joined the firm, as well. Senior accountant Anne Schlegel and marketing and communications specialist Stephanie Irvine both signed on to the team. Firefly also announced that 39 new full- and part-time employees have joined the company's 16 regional offices across the country.

Headquartered in Mokena, Illinois, Firefly Legal is an associate legal services company specializing in process serving, skip traces, loss mitigation, document retrieval, and court filing.
